Dear Friends,

I send greetings to those gathered for the Prayer Vigil in Los Angeles on behalf of North Korean refugees. As the people of North Korea suffer from persecution and fear, it is essential that they be addressed by determined efforts demonstrated by the Korean American Church Coalition.

North Korean refugees continue to be hunted down and repatriated, while Americans and many Chinese citizens have been jailed for courageously risking their lives to help them. Now is the time for China to reach out to these people without a voice, without hope, and without the chance to live a life of freedom.

Thank you for coming tonight and for believing in the power of prayer to win the freedom and peace of our brothers and sisters in North Korea. God bless you and be with you in your partnership to reaching out to those in need.

Sincerely,

Sam Brownback
